THE QUAKER

Guilford College

North Carolina

To Dr. E. Garness Purdom . . .

When we came to Guilford's campus as a freshman, we didn't feel like strangers very long, for a member of the faculty, whom we perhaps had never seen before, passed us on the walk the first week and greeted us by name. We wondered how in the world could this possibly be. We began to feel that perhaps here was someone who would take an interest in us and be willing to help us if problems should arise.

By the time we were seniors, we had been confronted by several problems, mathematical as well as personal, and we had discovered that here was truly someone who could offer us "perfectly straightforward" solutions to most any of those problems. The genuine advice given us was put on our level of understanding, and during conversations we were made to feel as though we were talking with our father or an older brother.

As a token of our appreciation for this deep interest, kindly advice, and lasting friendship, we offer this 1952 edition of the QUAKER to you, Dr. E. Garness Purdom.

The dream of all Guilford students . . .

. . . had come true in the year 1951-52—there it was in back of the gymnasium, a beautiful lake for boating and swimming. On the days when the thermometer registered 90° and we ran down to take a swim, we realized that those days which we—the students and faculty—spent sawing trees, piling brushes, hauling rocks, and digging ditches were days well spent.

There were other noticeable changes on our campus; the sociology department had lost its leading instructor to the graduate department of Carolina; Mr. Feagins was on leave of absence from the department of philosophy, and the athletics departments had new instructors and coaches. Many of our fellow students were not back this year, but bright new faces appeared in late September to take the places of those who had left us. Thus life at Guilford ever evolves, losing some part of itself each year and yet gaining a new part.

First we went to our dorms . . .

A Greeting from our President . . .

None are forgotten here!
Though we,
Who for a moment
Fill thy place,
Know not thy name,
Know not thy face.

All sunk within
A common fund of Love
And high resolve,
That with each fleeting year,
The Light shall brighter burn
In thee, please God, and in us here.

Julian Culton, president of the Senior class and chairman of the Student affairs Board, receives a hearty handshake and greeting from the President, upon his arrival to the campus in late September.

The distinguishing quality of Guilford College is friendliness. This greeting expresses the hope that for each of you this has become a real and genuine experience, because, during Guilford's 115th year, you have discovered this spirit among the students and between the students and faculty and you have learned that you are a meaningful part of Guilford College.

During the future years, as you read this Annual, it will bring floods of memories. It is my wish that you will learn to select these memories with such discernment and skill that they will be happy and creative ones—the personal interest and encouragement of a favorite professor, the recall of a class when a significant idea was grasped, the re-experiencing of a conversation when life's purpose and meaning were deepened. Equally memorable for you should be the many co-operative activities of student life—the strenuous and persistent discipline of athletics, the constant but inspiring rehearsals of great music, the time-consuming hours given to the subtle interpretation of drama, and the innumerable social occasions that give college life color and zest.

As you turn the pages of this QUAKER in the years to come, may you remember that you will always be a living, vital part of Guilford. As it has been the purpose of the College to make each student an integral part of its corporate life, so it is also the ideal to maintain a sustained interest in its former students and alumni, so that they will feel the support and strength of a concerned and continuous fellowship. Russell Pope's interpretation of this hope is expressed in the above poem.

One of the most coveted honors . . .

... accorded to college students throughout the nation in their undergraduate career is election to "Who's Who." Each year a limited number of Guilford College students are nominated by the faculty and the student body to be members of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

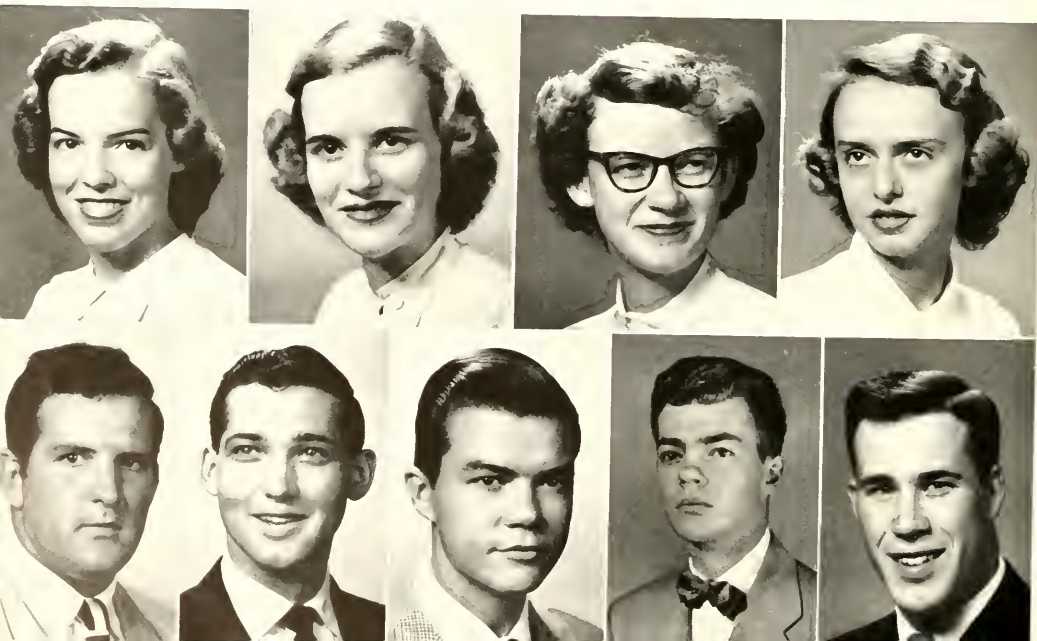

The selections are based on the student's scholarship, character, leadership, service, and participation in extra-curricular activities.

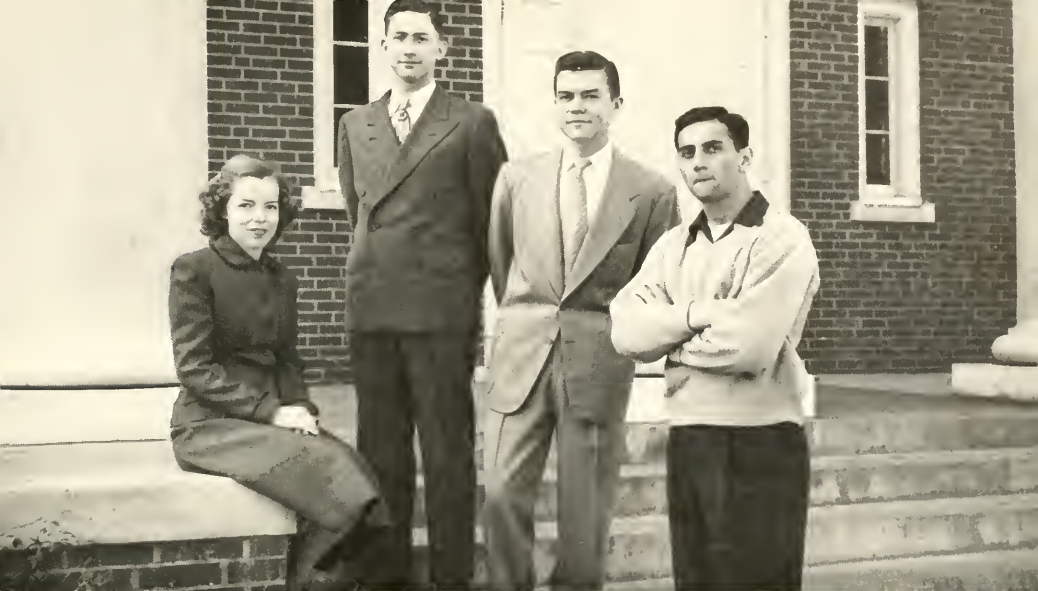

The nine recipients of this honor for 1952 are Abner Alexander of Winston-Salem, who was vice-president of the Men's Athletic Association and co-captain of the football team; Samuel Monroe Baker, Jr., of Greensboro, who was a college marshal, member of the Scholarship Society, and representative at the Student Legislature in Raleigh for two years; Julian Clark Culton of Charlotte, president of the Senior Class, president of the Student Affairs Board, marshal, and member of the Scholarship Society; Polly Edgerton of Goldsboro, who was chief marshal, member of the Scholarship Society, and president of the Dramatics Council; Joyce Fulk of Pilot Mountain, who was a college marshal, president of the Scholarship Society, and editor of the school yearbook; Sally Haire of North Troy, Vermont, president of the Women's Student Government, president of the Student Christian Association, and marshal; Henry Semmler of Storrs, Connecticut, who was president of the Men's Student Government and chairman of the honor board; Lucy Leake Ingram of Winston-Salem, who was a marshal, member of the Scholarship Society, and chairman of the social committee; and Bill Topping of Littleton, who was president of the Men's Athletic Association and an able athlete in football, basketball, and track.

As seen, these nine people have a long record of unselfish service to the school—a kind of devotion to their college which it is hoped will characterize their actions throughout the future years.

Happy, yet a little sad . . .

We are the only people in the world who will be able to say, "We graduated from Guilford College in 1952." Except for a little spilling back and forth from the classes of '51 and '53, we are essentially the same crew that first set foot on this campus back in September, 1948. Can it be possible that four years have passed since that time! It all seems like a dream, and yet we have many pleasant memories from these years that make them continue to seem very realistic.

Remember the time our freshman year when we beat Catawba and the old barn mysteriously went up in flames as a result. We also witnessed another exciting event that same year—the groundbreaking for the new science building, which became a finished product during our sophomore year. When our junior year came around, the library was expanded to offer such facilities as "study" rooms, a reading room, and a music room. This was also the year when Guilford College actually dismissed a day of classes to give the students a chance to get their long-desired lake under way.

And now we are seniors! There's a lot to remember about this, our last year at Guilford: the new lake all finished for our boating and swimming enjoyment; the thrilling production of the "Merchant of Venice" by the Barter Theater; the "Barretts of Wimpole Street" produced so well by our own Dramatics Council; the wonderful banquet given in our honor by the juniors; the senior party held at the Alumni House; the senior theses due on May 15; the Milner's reception where we were served that wonderful speciality, "cucumber" punch; and finally graduation, which came in June this year.

As we glance back over these years filled with memories of friends, ball games, dances, May Days (boys' as well as girls'), hikes, choir tours, term papers, and classes, we realize that Guilford College has given us four of the best years of our lives and has done much to prepare us for facing the future with open minds and willing hearts.

At every important event . . .

. . . young gentlemen in tuxedos and young women in white formal dresses were on the job with a "Good evening. Where would you people like to sit?" These boys and girls, chosen on the basis of leadership, scholarship, and character, were elected by the faculty in the spring of 1951 to act as college marshals, under the competent advisorship of Dr. Eva Campbell, throughout the coming year.

Their duties really began the spring of '51—they could be seen trying to find a good seat for an eager parent of a member of the graduating class. Their activities ended with the commencement exercises of 1952, climaxed by the leading of the Senior procession. They shared the sadness and the elation which the various occasions brought, but they enjoyed it, feeling a sense of appreciation and honor to have been chosen to serve their school in this way.

Three years of college . . .

. . . is supposed to give one the reserve and disquiet commonly known as an upperclassman, or more specifically a junior. But three years somehow seemed to have flown by too fast to make this realization seem true—so fast that it seems hard to even realize we are on the verge of becoming seniors.

Fast as the time has flown, however, we still have some precious memories—like the big Club House Party we had in place of the Annual Junior Ball. The disappointment of not being able to have the Ball was almost obliterated by the terrific time we had at the Club House. The most important event of the whole year, however, was the Junior-Senior Banquet—our last chance to honor the class of '52. We'll never forget it, and we're fairly certain the seniors won't either—this last bright memory of the gay raillery and the close comradeship which has grown for three years between the classes of '52 and '53.

We have other memories, too—those tests in Religion 35 and the pseudo-learned discussions with the despairing Mr. Burrows, who attacked the monstrous job of trying to teach us just what "thinking" entails.

But now all the work and play of this, our Junior year, and even the final show-down—exams—are over, and the class of '52 is leaving us the title of the Senior Class of Guilford College—a heritage which we, like they, will learn to treasure throughout the coming year.

No Longer Freshmen . . .

. . . we returned to Guilford this year determined to see that the freshmen were given the proper initiation into campus life, via Rat Court. The freshmen girls will not soon forget that eventful day when they were pulled from their beds at 5:30 A.M. and led to the graveyard to be entertained by ghosts. This was followed by calisthenics and outstanding individual performances and was climaxed by a party.

For the boys, rat court was never over. On just any bleak night they could be heard serenading the girls at Founders and Hobbs.

Now the Sophomores know what upperclassmen meant when they said, "Whew! Philosophy 24!"—which included grading the houses along Friendly Road, becoming very familiar with the works of great artists, and displaying our talents?? in the form of art projects. The word psychology took on a new meaning for us also—especially after being tested by a psychogalvanometer.

Aside from our academic life, our class spent some of its time trying to raise money for the annual freshman-sophomore picnic which was held at the college lake.

Now, with the close of the 1951-52 school year, half of our college career is ended. We look forward to the remaining two years, hoping and feeling sure that they will be as enjoyable and as beneficial as the ones past.

We came, We saw . . .

. . . and most of us were scared to death. Now, as we look back on those first few weeks of school, there are memories for each of us of confusion . . . embarrassment . . . fun . . . rollicking good times . . . and, yes most important, memories of new friends.

With our adjustment to this new life, many questions easily found their way into all of our minds. What was Guilford really going to be like? Would I be able to wear my room-mate's clothes? What do all the initials like S.C.A. and W.A.A. stand for, and does I.R.C. really mean International Rat Court like the sophomores said it did? Answers came to our many questions, and as time went on, those things which had been strange and unfamiliar, took on a new meaning for each of us.

A new meaning indeed was Rat Court, which was triumphantly carried out by the members of the sophomore class. Never to be forgotten are those stylish shower caps . . . a midnight serenade by the Freshmen inhabitants of Cox and Archdale . . . or the girls taking early morning calisthenics on the football field.

With other memories of our earliest days at Guilford, comes a Friday night in Mem Hall, when we presented the 1951 edition of the Freshman Talent Show. "The Charleston," "Shotgun Boogie," and "Little Olly" along with the other performances, proved that our class included veteran troopers of the stage.

Months have passed now, and it is no longer a feeling of confusion that we have, but one of belonging. We have become a part of Guilford College, and it is with pride that we say we are members of her freshman class.

A play, a dance, and a ball game . . .

. . . were some of the many activities that filled the weeks of this busy school year. Not to be outdone by a well-organized Freshman class, our faculty brought to light their hidden talents—bagpipe playing, mimicking student characteristics, and writing and acting a parody on "H.M.S. Pinofore." The more energetic faculty entertained us later in the year with basketball playing in which the students were "shown up."

On Saturday nights, movies filled in between such bigger events as the Dramatics Council's costume party, the Dramatics Council plays—"The Barretts" and "The Torchbearers," a Hallowe'en masquerade, the K.K.K., and a Sadie Hawkins Dance. S.C.A. Christmas caroling, Choir concerts and a tour "up north" were only part of this year's musical activities, for the Fine Arts group worked hard to present its first operetta in May.

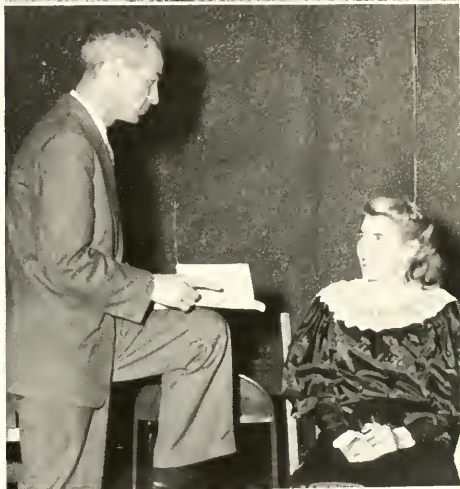

Open House, sponsored by the student governments, followed a frenzied spring cleaning; then we found out that spring wasn't here yet: our "Yankees" had proof that it really snows way down in North Carolina! Enormous snowmen and dangerous battles showed our enthusiasm for the big change in weather. More outdoor good times came with a hike to the Battleground and a trek up to Hanging Rock.

Hobbs' big dinners were again the occasion at holiday time—be it Thanksgiving, Christmas, or Valentine's Day. And in the line of cooking the entire campus recognized Dick Staley as "tops"—he was chief chef for an excellent Junior-Senior Banquet and for several smaller informal occasions.

Energetic campaigning for the first time in years preceeded the Spring Elections as posters and publicity stunts took over the campus and Chapel time was allotted to MSG candidates.

May Day brought a new excitement for freshmen and all the usual enthusiasm in upperclassmen. It was a long day from an early awakening to a late dance, but it proved to be a day which passed quickly into memories. . . .

All these occasions were supplements to and results of a great amount of work done by those in the various organizations. With so many innovations having made this an even better year, we are quite sure that it's one to be remembered by seniors, bettered by juniors, and held as an example by underclassmen.

“I move that we amend the amended motion . . .”

Every second Wednesday of every month, you'd see the secretary of the Student Affairs Board rushing off to the Post Office to send our announcements of a meeting to be held the next evening. The members of the SAB met every second Thursday of each month to discuss and iron out any problems that might have arisen within the organizations. Julian Culton, our able chairman, presided over the meetings, with help from Bobby Spencer, vice-president, and Joyce Fulk, secretary.

At times these meetings would have seemed quite confusing to an outsider, because often before you quite understood a certain motion that had been made, someone would ask to amend the motion, and before you could take a deep breath, another person would suggest an "amendment to the amended motion." At such exasperating points in our meetings, our advisers—Dr. Victorius, Miss Lasley, and Dr. Purdom—would help to get us back on the right track.

The functions of this body, which co-ordinates all the campus organizations, are as follows: to handle requests for extra funds and to elect from among its members a points committee, a budget committee, and an elections committee. The points committee checks eligibility for offices; the budget committee makes out and presents to the students a budget for the coming year, and the elections committee takes on the responsibility of making out ballots and setting up the polls for spring elections. We see that this is a very important organizing and executive body.

This year the Student Affairs Board officially accepted the Fine Arts Club into its membership, raising the number of organizations represented in the SAB to sixteen.

Although the Student Affairs Board provides no outstanding teas or entertainment, it plays a vital part in keeping the life at Guilford College running smoothly.

For all the students . . .

. . . of Guilford the social committee meant good and varied entertainment this year. Probably the social committee comes in contact with more Guilfordians than any other organization through its varied activities. One of the ways new students get acquainted with the people at Guilford is through the Freshman reception and dance. Even though new students have to sweat through the big receiving line it is probably the only opportunity for them to meet all the faculty together. Everyone enjoyed the dance with great music from Jimmie Perkins and his band. Following this up, the Freshman Talent Show went off with a bang this year amid charlestons, folk and popular songs, and character sketches.

The long gaps in weekends between ball games and dances, etc., are plugged up by movies which the social committee sponsors. Some of the movies this year were "Snake Pit," "How Green Was My Valley," and "Give My Regards to Broadway." The committee also sponsored dances in the Soda Shop from 7:00 to 7:30 on weeknights.

The last fling of the social committee this year was the annual February dance which turned out to be quite an exciting evening. Buddy Klein and orchestra from State supplied the music from a well-balanced combo band.

This year the social committee has left records which, it hopes, will help future committees in the myriad of detailed work necessary to the committee's varied and extensive recreational program.

"To govern the women students . . ."

. . . to further a high morale among the women students; to promote the highest welfare of the college; to create a spirit of friendly relationship among the women students, and to help them adjust to college life"—states the purpose to the constitution of the Women's Student Government.

The WSG has fulfilled its purpose this year under the expert leadership of Sally Haire. Helping Sally with the many problems which came her way as president, were Jane Hockett, vice-president; Ann Yarrow, secretary; and Anne Newton, treasurer.

While one of the main tasks of the WSG is to initiate and execute regulations for the women students, it also sees to it that the students enjoy fun and fellowship. Dorm parties were held both at Christmas time and on Valentine's Day. A freshman-sophomore party ended Freshman Initiation Day on October 5, and a junior-senior party was held in the spring.

In collaboration with the Men's Student Government, the WSG sponsored the Campus Chest Drive and the Christmas Seal Drive.

All in all, this year was quite a successful one for the Women's Student Government.

They governed successfully . . .

Under the competent guidance of president Bobby Spencer, the Men's Student Government has successfully carried out the powers invested in it during the 1951-52 school year. As Bobby's right hand man, and helping him with his many responsibilities was Philip Haworth, vice-president of the organization.

Bill Harris, Grady Lakey, and Tommy Liverman, class representatives, complete the present roster.

These men have tried to build up a spirit of co-operation that will make each student proud of his section and of his class, and in turn, of his school. Examples of such co-operation were seen during the Christmas Seal Drive. Each representative handled his section, and each reported a one-hundred per cent response.

The Men's Student Government has tried to continue the policies adopted at its beginning in 1926; to act as an aid to new students in their adjustment problems; to act as the "bridge" between the students and the faculty; and to promote a better and more suitable environment in which the men can live, work, play, and study together.

Shown above are Mr. Parsons, our competent adviser, and Billy Furr Hatley, our amiable and witty advertising manager.

"The time has come," the students said, "to think of many things
Books, theses, examinations, graduation, and bonfire sings,
Of dances, friends, and ball games, and strolls 'neath shady trees;
We just must have a yearbook to capture all of these.

So we, the staff, rolled up our sleeves, and then began to write
Of this and that, to check class rolls, read copy half the night;
Made campus shots and group photos of students here and there,
And worried o'er financial woes until we tore our hair;
But now the work is finished, and we present to you,
With pride, and yet humility— THE QUAKER of '52.

Discouraged, but successful . . .

For the Guilfordian, it has been a tumultuous year, beginning with the best of intentions—a series of large editions, scoops and campaigns, and an outspoken editorial policy—and climaxed by the rioting in the dining hall.

Some of the bigger stories of the year were the building of the lake, the recall of Coaches Teague and Lentz by the Marines, graduation, May Day (Boys' and Girls'), rat courts, and, more recently the decision to continue football, the new May Court, and the Guilford Stockyard coverage, all scoops on the daily newspapers.

The Guilfordian has had its troubles, too—the resignation of its managing editor, budget cuts, and the abrupt departure of its editor which threw the organization into the throes of reintegration. It emerged with a new editorial and business staff, increased vigor, and a determination to go places and do things. Only time can tell how successful the new staff will be, but it is quite likely to carry on the strong Guilfordian tradition.

One fine example of the attainment of co-operation and good fellowship through the fine arts is found in the Guilford College A Cappella Choir. Under the spirited leadership of Mr. Underwood, director, and the presidency of Jeane Walton, the Choir this year has accomplished many new achievements. It provided music for the fifteenth annual convention of the N. C. Council of Churches, and sang in Greensboro's Euterpe sponsored presentation of Handel's "Messiah." The Choir was greatly honored in being selected to record the music for the Christmas program of the Morehead Planetarium. In April the Choir formed the nucleus of a group which presented Bach's "St. Matthew Passion."

It is traditional that the Choir make a concert tour during spring vacation to such exciting places as New York, New England, Florida, Dallas, or Chicago. The Choir has already sung in most of the states east of the Mississippi and this year it scheduled an extensive tour in New York State and also sang near Harrisburg, Pa., Washington, D. C., and Richmond, Va. The annual trip is a pleasant way to combine hard work, travel, and fun, as anyone can tell if he hears the impromptu harmonizings or the enthusiastic rendition of "Charlie Is My Darling" as the bus load of happy choir members travels to its next stop.

Besides the extended tour, the Choir appears in concerts in Greensboro churches, for civic functions, and at neighboring colleges which include North Carolina State, High Point, Bennett, and Greensboro Colleges. Choir membership, open to any student, provides an excellent course in music history as well as the practical experience and discipline found in memorizing many religious and secular pieces—music of the early church; works by composers such as Brahms, Stainer, DiLasso, and Palestrina; Negro spirituals and contemporary choral numbers.

The curtain has closed . . .

. . . on the school year of 1951-52—a successful one for the Dramatics Council. The fall play, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," produced under the able direction of E. Daryl Kent, fulfilled all our hopes. We were aiming high in attempting to do "Barretts," but it did prove a safe gamble. We will long remember Isobel Thayer as Elizabeth Barrett Browning (a good job done on a first role), Horace McManus as Mr. Barrett, Elizabeth's father, and Andy Hughes as Robert Browning. The famous romantic comedy was a play the Dramatics Council had long wanted to present.

With one success back of us, we were encouraged to work even harder on the spring play, "The Torch Bearers" by George Kelly, a lighter comedy than the fall play but one that we feel was just as successful. The play was based on the impromptu comedy back stage of every production. We were pleased to have working with us in the capacity of director, Mildred Marlette.

As a token of appreciation to all of the student body and the faculty who helped to make it possible for these plays to be produced, the Dramatics Council sponsored a Masquerade Ball which was held in March. We hope that you enjoyed working with us as much as we enjoyed having you, for your interest made the Council the success that it was.

From theory to practice . . .

The Guilford College Chapter of the Future Teachers of America is a new campus organization, consisting of all students who are interested in teaching or in working with children. In September of 1951, we became recognized as a national organization and named our chapter for Dr. Lyndon Hobbs.

Our programs have been very helpful to the future teachers. One very interesting program was a panel discussion by some high school students on "what I like in a teacher." Another panel discussion of critic teachers on "the practice teacher in the eyes of the critic teacher" was very valuable to those students who were practice teaching. Still another program which was very interesting and informative was a discussion by recent graduates of Guilford on "the problems of the first year of teaching."

Highlights in our programs were the frequent weiner roasts and hamburger parties at the home of Mr. Harold Bailey, our adviser. Croquet was very popular at these outings.

Other activities were planned and carried out successfully. The F.T.A. is an organization aimed at acquainting the future teacher with the actual work in the profession which he has chosen to enter.

Cream of Guilford's academic life . . .

The Scholarship Society consists of those students who have maintained a 2.5 quality average for five semesters. There are five members of this year's Senior Class who have achieved this honor. They are Samuel Baker, precise English and history major; Julian Culton, brilliant pre-med student; Polly Edgerton, elementary teacher-to-be; Joyce Fulk, math brain and president of the Society; and Lucy Leake Ingram, English major with a flair for dramatics.

Ten juniors have merited membership after their first five semesters here at Guilford. They were officially accepted into the Society on April 25, with chapel speeches made by Polly Edgerton and Joyce Fulk. The new members are Bruce Morton, June Smith, Zoe Campbell, Glenna Fulk, Mae Nicholson, Karl Reinhardt, Morton Salkind, Richard Staley, Betsy White, and Ann Yarrow.

This year the Society sponsored a party for all honor roll students. Those present enjoyed an evening of fun and refreshments. The Scholarship Society also sponsored a speaker at an open meeting and tea on Alumni Day.

After five semesters of hard work, these students were honored as members of the Scholarship Society. Lucy Ingram, Julian Culton, Polly Edgerton, Samuel Baker, and Joyce Fulk.

Fun and fellowship . . .

One of the active organizations on campus this year was the Young Friends Fellowship. Of the one-hundred Young Friends on campus, only about forty-five per cent were regular attendants. This, however, was an inspired and interested group which was concerned with keeping an active fellowship.

The officers of the group this year were Jennie Smith, presiding clerk; Betsy White, recording clerk; Clyde Branson, treasurer; Jane Hockett and Jane Ott, hospitality chairmen; Frances Petty, work camp chairman; Billy Furr Hatley, publicity chairman, and John Pipkin, program chairman.

The group had a supper meeting once a month either at the home of a Friend or on campus. At these meetings, they enjoyed a program of worship, business, and warm fellowship.

The group helped sponsor the annual High School Day which was held on campus in November; they also sponsored the annual Mid-year Conference for Young Friends of high school and college age which was held on campus the week-end of March 1 and 2.

In addition to this, several other successful projects were carried out by the group during the latter part of the year under the able leadership and guidance of the faculty sponsors—Charles Hendricks and Frederic and Margaret Crownfield.

Retreats, hikes, and Sunday evening fellowship . . .

A leading organization on Guilford's campus, the Student Christian Association has helped to provide the student body with a full schedule of varied and worthwhile activities, with its usual Sunday evening services highlighted by the annual outings. During the fall they sponsored the annual Sadie Hawkin's Day square dance and Guilford's first Faculty Talent Show for the benefit of the Community Chest. In the spring three extensive programs were carried out: a religious emphasis week, a "marriage and the family" series, and a "Twenty-one Week" to prepare the students for active citizenship. Holidays were an occasion for extra-special activities. At Christmas time enthusiastic students prepared baskets for needy families, caroled for the community, and arranged for the second campus Christmas party. A visit to the Morehead Planetarium provided an Easter treat for a bus load of students.

Each spring the new cabinet begins its activity with a week-end retreat at which general fields of emphasis for the coming year are discussed and tentative plans suggested. This is followed up in the fall by a pre-Freshman Week retreat to which Freshmen and former cabinet members are invited. At this time definite activities for the year are outlined.

The SCA is grateful to its faculty advisers and the other faculty members who have been a big help in many ways.

Guilford has one of North Carolina's more active SCA's. Ruth Beeson is president of the North Carolina YWCA-YMCA Conference; Ann Yarrow is a representative on the Greensboro Intercollegiate Council; and Josh Crane is president of the Southeastern Area of YMCA. The SCA also sends delegates to area, state, and regional conferences at Quaker Lake and New Hope, N. C., and Berea, Ky.

... discussions, and especially a joint meeting with Greensboro College, the International Relations Club can look back upon a successful year.

Our meeting with Greensboro College proved to be a most interesting one. The discussion centered around the "North Atlantic Treaty Organization" with Guilford taking the more critical approach toward the organization.

Each year several members of our club attend a Regional Meeting of International Relations Clubs. This year Patricia Reid and Wilda Mae Briles attended a conference at Black Mountain College in Asheville. The topic of discussion was the communist challenge. It was a very vital and interesting conference; the wholesome and enlightening fellowship was enjoyed by everyone.

Our club is a member of the regional and state, as well as the national, IRC organizations. The 1951-52 officers of Guilford's International Relations Club are Morton Salkind, president; Wilda Mae Briles, vice-president; Virginia Dulany, secretary; and Billy Harris, treasurer.

With the politically inclined . . .

An enthusiastic organization on Guilford campus this year was the Young Republicans Club. Led by Charles Matthews, president; Joe Marini, vice-president; and Jayne Bennett, secretary; the club carried out many interesting and successful projects, such as sending several members to Delaware to the Eastern College Council meeting and playing host to the Woman's College Club. Another project was to organize Young Republicans Clubs at Elon College and at Greensboro College.

The highlight of their activities this year was the visit to Guilford campus by Senator Robert A. Taft who gave an interesting chapel talk.

“Ontogeny is the recapitulation of phylogeny . . .”

There is on Guilford College Campus a group of students who seem to spend hours and hours in the north-wing of King Hall engaged in mysterious activities involving such things as formaldehyded frogs, helpless half-dissected fauna (the latter a term biologists are fond of using, meaning to the average layman simply pure, unmitigated animals—in general), or even just plain chicken eggs. If you ask them what they're doing, they'll cheerfully tell you—and if they talk about what a wonderful “twelve-hour primitive streak” they found the other day, you'll realize that here are some really learned and enthusiastic members of the department of Biology—quite immersed in their fondest pastime—oblivious to all else—gleefully gorging on galaxies of guppies.

Seriously, these Biology majors are so fond of afore-mentioned subject that they have formed a club under the advisanship of Dr. Campbell, to keep caught up on current developments in the biological sciences. It is open to anyone who has had three hours of Biology at Guilford, and who is a Biology major. The Freshmen majors are invited to join at the first meeting of the second semester. The Club meetings, scheduled to be held every three weeks, include a business meeting, a planned program, and a short social hour. Speakers from the medical profession are invited, movies are shown, reports on current events are given, and Junior and Sophomore speeches are presented.

The club officers for 1951-52 are June Smith, president; Julian Culton, vice-president; Mae Nicholson, treasurer; Herman Rierson, secretary; and Phil Haworth, program chairman.

This group has a great interest in and appreciation for the fine arts, particularly music. Left to right: Mr. Charles Underwood, Miss Dorothy Ware, Walton, Brice, Grogan, Petty, Grantham, Wade, Thorburn, Bingham, Utley (president), and Thines. Back row: Money, Herring, Farlow, Kaiser, Owens, Griffin, and Gorgas.

Let's try it . . .

And the Fine Arts Club did. The American operetta, "Down in the Valley" by Kurt Weill, was their spring production—a new type of undertaking for Guilford musicians.

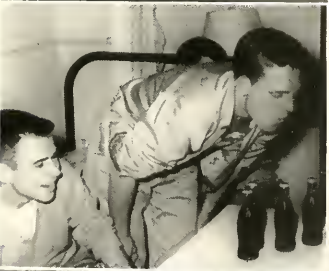

The entire club was sparked with the idea of a project for their club which was to be a work in which every member could participate and all the public could enjoy. This idea developed then into the performance of the folk opera. This main project did much for the organization itself in that it brought new interest and members to the club and made use of the many talents of students who were non-members. As the curtain closed on the last scene some of the cast had thoughts of next year: "They seemed to like it. Why not do it again?" We hope this project has begun a tradition.

The Fine Arts Club as it existed this year was composed almost entirely of music majors; however, the organization was expanded to include more music and other art enthusiasts on campus. Under the leadership of Bill Utley, president, the club met monthly. Occasionally the vocal and instrumental programs were supplemented by a social hour of fun and refreshments.

The purpose of the Fine Arts Club is to provide a means for public performance by the applied music students. Its intention is to sponsor recitals and other musical functions throughout the year. National Music Week was observed in May on Guilford campus under the sponsorship of the Fine Arts Club. At this time various programs and recitals were scheduled for the interest of the general public.

These projects by the Fine Arts Club make it an organization of which its members and advisers may well be proud.

A backward glance . . .

Every year at about this time we pause and look back over the past year. From Hobbs Field last fall when the gridiron team was seen practicing everyday in their hard and tiresome workouts, to the gym for basketball in the winter season, and back to Hobbs Field for baseball, it has been a good year. The upset victory by the Quaker eleven over a powerful Flon crew and the close basketball games will always be remembered. And who can forget the Quaker upset of Appalachian's Mountaineers in the conference basketball tournament, only to loose to Lenoir Rhyne's surprising Bears?

But it wasn't a year of nothing but pleasure. There was blood, sweat, and possibly tears. The worst luck of the year was no doubt the many injuries that were heaped upon the football team. These injuries greatly hindered the Quakers, and no doubt were a strong factor in influencing the final record of only one win as compared to seven losses. But, as if to re-affirm our faith, the alumni overwhelmingly voted to continue football.

This year saw the inauguration of an entire new coaching staff. Stuart Maynard, former Guilford star athlete and coach at Williamston High School was named as head football coach and athletic director. Dave Meredith became basketball coach after a successful season as coach at Guilford High School, and Walt Moon, Guilford fullback of last year was named as the third man in the athletic department. These three men were the backbone of athletics at Guilford this year and are to be highly commended for their fine work.

A very effective intramural program and the addition of new tennis courts, and a very well planned W.A.A. program developed by their new instructor, Miss Reynolds, rounds out a year of athletics on the Quaker campus.

Shown in front of the college gymnasium are Yates, Topping, and Alexander, officers of the Men's Athletic Association.

Gym and field . . .

. . . were almost deserted during the summer months, but with September's coming the old Founder's bell began to ring once more—and the Men's Athletic Association went into action, beginning its broadened program of inter-and intra-collegiate athletic activity.

The officers of the Men's AA have the immense job of governing the funds allocated by the Student's Affairs Board for the purpose of financing all men's sports activities during the year. The association, under the guidance of President Bill Topping, assisted by Vice-President Abner Alexander and Secretary-Treasurer Bill Yates, has been very successful this year in handling the responsibilities that are necessary in running an athletic program.

Although operating with less funds than in previous years, the association financed the teams for many of their trips, awarded varsity letters to those athletes eligible, purchased new uniforms for some of the teams and, besides all this, sponsored a well-rounded intramural program under the wise direction of Coach Dave Meredith.

The "G" men . . .

The Monogram Club is composed of men — this year, 54 strong — who have won letters in the various sports or have been managers of the sports. Upon receiving a letter, anyone is eligible for membership.

The Monogram Club has sponsored several social events throughout the year, beginning with the Hallowe'en Carnival. The Christmas season on campus was highlighted by the Christmas Dance at which the Christmas Queen was crowned. This year Miss Bonnie Ferrell was chosen by the club members to reign over the delightful event. The coming of spring heralded the "Klub Kampus Kuries" affair.

Since the Club has concession rights at all home basketball and baseball games and sells programs at home football games, it is fairly independent — paying for its sweaters and social affairs with the proceeds which are earned.

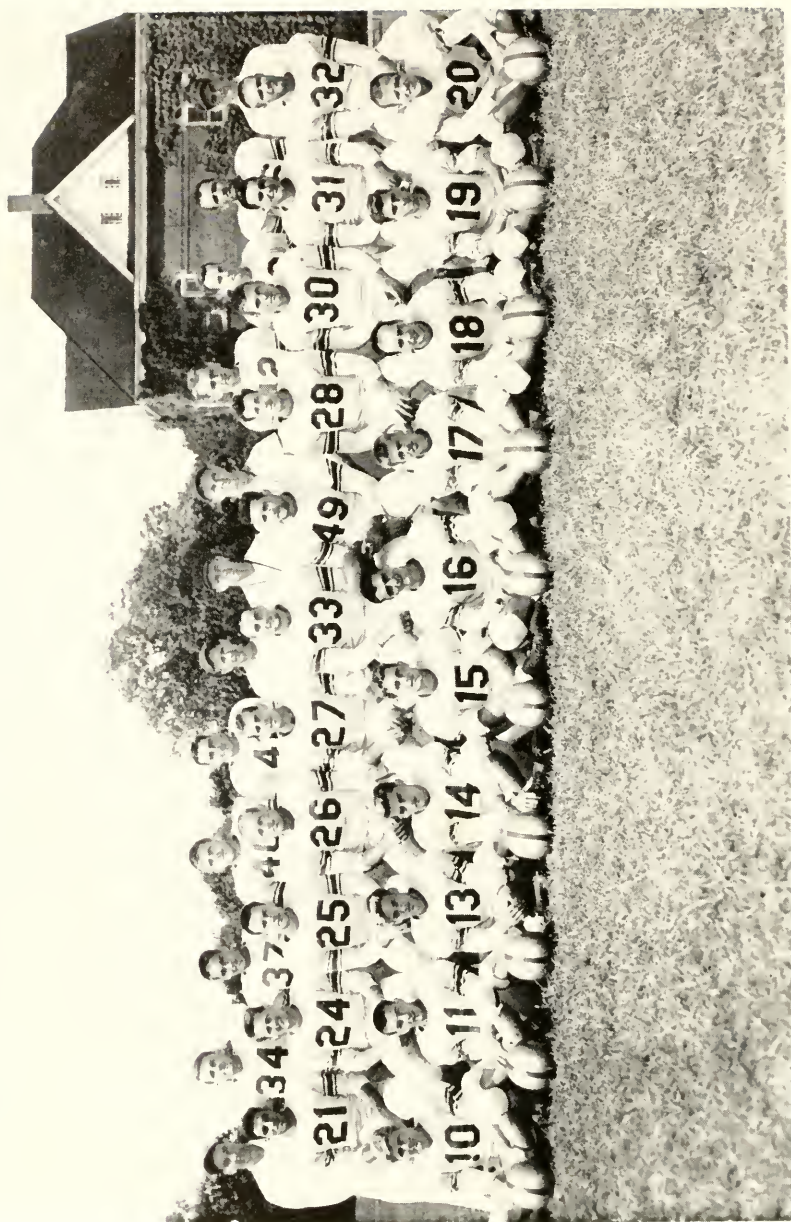

Officers for this school year were Sam Lynch, president; Bill Ringler, vice-president; Phil Haworth, secretary; and Abner Alexander, treasurer.

Bonnie Ferrell smiles happily after having been crowned Monogram Club Christmas Queen.

We are very proud of Venuto, Alexander, and Topping, who received All-Conference honors.

Let's go . . . Big Red! . . .

As we close the record books on the 1951-52 edition of football on the Quaker campus, it is fitting that we should look deeper than just the scores. From the standpoint of scores, the season wasn't successful, but looking farther behind the scenes, it wasn't a bad year at all. The season record of seven losses and one win is not impressive, but considering the scarcity of material, injuries, and lack of interest by the public, the record is nothing to be ashamed of. Coach Maynard is to be highly commended for the fine work he has done this year.

The starting whistle of the season saw the Quakers tackling Appalachian's Mountaineers in the traditional opener at Winston-Salem. The twenty to nothing score doesn't indicate the fight put up by the Quakers. This was the only game halfback Joe Breddon played, for he was drafted during the next week.

Hampden Sydney rolled up twenty-one points while holding the luckless Quakers scoreless in a game played in a driving rain. The third straight loss for Guilford came at the hands of East Tennessee in Kingsport. The Quakers scored their first touchdown of the year in the second half when Nick Guerere pulled in a Carl Jones pass. The final score was East Tennessee 29, Guilford 7.

Remembering their twenty-one to twenty loss to the Quakers last year, the strong Emory and Henry eleven were out for revenge. The halftime score stood at 9-0 in favor of the Wasps, but in the second half the Wasps began to roll, scoring twenty-six points and making the final score 35 to 6. The pirates of East Carolina found the Quakers fighting mad and finally scored in the fourth quarter to edge Guilford 19 to 14. This was Co-captain Sam Lynch's last game, for during the next week he was hospitalized and out for the rest of the season.

Conference champions, Lenoir Rhyne, turned on the steam and turned back the Quakers by the score of thirty-three to nothing. Scoring a touchdown in the final minutes, the Indians of Catawba went ahead of the Quakers 20 to 14 and held on to their slim lead till the final whistle blew.

The final game of the season saw the Quakers going against the powerful Elon Christians. Elon, with a mathematical chance of tying Lenoir Rhyne for first place, thought the Quakers were going to be a pushover. The Quakers thought differently. Led by Venuto's two touchdowns, the Quakers added two more, one by Bob Shoaf and the other by Chuck Whitecomb. While Guilford was racking up twenty-eight points, Elon was scoring twenty. A great display of school spirit, climaxed by a parade the day before the game, helped the Quakers conquer the powerful Christians.

And, thus, with the Elon-Guilford game, the final curtain is brought down on the 1951-52 Guilford football season.

The sharp shooting Quakers went far . . .

Coach Dave Meredith, making his debut as a college coach, led the Guilford Quakers to a very successful season. The Quaker Courtmen won ten while losing thirteen, breaking even in conference games with eight wins and eight losses, a good enough record to assure them of a fifth place tie with Lenoir Rhyne, who split even in fourteen games.

The old Catawba jinx was broken by this year's team, who whalloped the Indians in two conference games. This was the first time in at least twelve years that the Quakers have defeated Catawba in a regular season game. However, the Elon and High Point nemesis still was strong, these two teams having handed the Meredith Men one-half of their eight conference setbacks.

High scorer on this year's squad was Don McLeod, who averaged 16 points per game. He was followed by Bob Shoaf and Bill Woodall.

From a spectators point of view many exciting games were played, among them the two Western Carolina games in which the two teams split even, the Quakers taking the first game 64 to 62 and the Caramounts winning the second game 81 to 78. The Elon-Guilford game was decided in the final seconds with the Christians edging Guilford, 81 to 79. The Guilford-Appalachian game played on the Quaker home court was also a thriller from the starting whistle, with the Mountaineers coming out on the long end of a 58-57 score.

In the conference tourney, the Quakers dumped the top-seeded Apps in the opener and then lost to Lenoir Rhyne, who went on to win the post season playoffs.

This year's squad has many promising recruits who will greatly help the courtmen next year, but those seniors on this year's squad - Bobby Crews, Rick Ferrell, Bill Topping, will be sorely missed. They, along with Coach Meredith and the rest of the team, are to be congratulated for their fine work.

Our promising young basketball stars . . .

The Junior Varsity team, coached by Stuart Maynard, although closing the season with five consecutive losses, had a record identical with the varsity's conference record, eight wins and eight setbacks.

Of the sixteen games played, ten of them were decided by five points or less; three of the wins were by one point.

If the most thrilling game is to be picked, the nod would go to the Appalachian game at Boone. The Mountaineers were one point ahead with only one second to go, but a lay up shot by Jeep Armstrong put the Quakers in the lead just as the final whistle blew.

On this year's squad are many boys who will help out a lot on next year's varsity, and Coach Maynard has done a fine job grooming these boys into future Quaker stars.

Coaches Maynard and Moon are well pleased with this year's sports records.

Trying to make a comeback from last year's poor season, the Quaker baseball team—at the writing of this article—appears to be rounding into top shape. Coach Maynard has been doing his best to mold the Quakers into championship material, and, if the pitching of Bailey Nunn, Jack McKeown, Arnold Leary, and Bye Lapham is backed up by some strong power at the plate, Guilford will close this year with a very successful season.

This year the North State Conference is divided into two divisions—East and West—with Guilford, along with High Point, Elon, East Carolina, and Atlantic Christian, making up the Eastern division. After each team completes play in its division, the two winners will play to decide who will be North State Conference champions this year.

“Take me out to the ball game . . .”

The HOME TEAM is winning!

There were those who excelled in tennis . . .

Captain Larry comes through with that "wicked" serve.

With the completion of the four new tennis courts the scene was set for the 1952 North State Conference Tennis campaign to be launched, and the Quakers were ready to provide plenty of stiff competition for all opponents involved.

Not since the days when Hughes Davis was roaming Guilford's tennis courts have local fans seen such smooth swinging netmen as Curt Laughlin and Sonny Dillon. These two manned the first and second positions respectively. Captain Larry Fine returned to see action in this season's rugged schedule. Last year's doubles teams composed of Donnie McLeod, Sonny Dillon, Curt Laughlin, and Joe Attayek were shattered as a result of the drafting of Attayek into the U. S. Army and McLeod's not being a candidate for this year's team. Bobby Crews tried out for the local net team. This diminutive lad wields a wicked racket and strengthened the locals considerably. Local fans saw some good, fast tennis displayed on the Quaker campus this spring.

And those who were handy with a paddle . . .

The Regional Ping Pong Tournament, conducted in Chapel Hill's Woolen Gymnasium on December 1, 1951, was won by Guilford's Bob Shoaf. Shoaf displayed uncanny ability with the remarkable manner in which he returned terrific drives which seemed to be sure points for his opponents. His defense was remarkable, but it was his phenomenal offensive game that drew favorable comments from all spectators and officials at the tourney. On numerous occasions during the tournament, the High Point native, slammed drives with such force that it was useless for his opponents to attempt to return the pellet.

Strangely enough, the Quakers also placed second and third in this Regional Tournament. Donnie McLeod, all-conference basketball star, and Carl Tharin, Guilford's popular golfer, placed second and third respectively. Other schools from the North State Conference represented at the meet were Lenoir Rhyne, and Hon while the Big Four was represented by Duke, Carolina, and Wake Forest.

Let's go . . . Quakers !!!

On the job with plenty of the old vim, vigor, and vitality, Guilford's cheerleaders could be seen at all the football and basketball games, the young ladies displaying their new grey and red skirts and the entire squad displaying a "grey and red, knock 'em dead!" spirit. And it was not just the night of a game that such great enthusiasm was shown. At nine-thirty, on the night before every football game, cheerleaders, carrying flaming torches and beating drums, marched around the campus, leading students toward the gym where, in the light of the blazing bonfire and amid spirited yelling and singing, the coaches and football stars gave their predictions about the next night's game. Every student felt that he was a part of every game, and the team felt sure that they had the full support of the student body. Probably never was more spirit shown by both cheerleaders and spectators than at the Elon football game and the Appalachian basketball game at Statesville. We take great pride in our athletic teams at Guilford, and in the cheerleaders who do much to keep their spirits high.

With the women . . .

The Women's Athletic Association, under the able leadership of our president, Jo Butner, has had an excellent year. The first week of October the new cabinet met and conducted a weekend retreat at "Old Mill," Greensboro District Girl Scout Camp, where, under the leadership of Miss Margaret Reynolds, instructor of Women's Physical Education, we planned the activities for the coming year.

Plans were made for Play Days with other schools and the first of these was a tennis Play Day with Woman's College, followed by a meeting in November with Chapel Hill in Keenan Stadium to play field hockey (U. N. C. 6, Guilford 2). Basketball Play Days were scheduled with the surrounding colleges for March and April.

The wonderful night after Guilford beat Flon, the W.A.A. sponsored an informal Thanksgiving Dance, "The Turkey Trot," with intermission entertainment M.C'd by Howard Coble, and featuring Marilyn Lanhart and Bob Wall as vocalists, and the entire W.A.A. cabinet in a unique presentation of that old dance favorite, the "Turkey Trot."

In November our president, accompanied by Betty Venable, the basketball manager, and Miss Reynolds, travelled to Appalachian for the convention of the North Carolina Federation of College Women. During this convention Guilford was elected chairman of the Western District of North Carolina Colleges to act as arranger of Sports Days for the surrounding colleges in this district.

The Modern Dance Club was reorganized with Jo Cameron as chairman, and under the directorship of Virginia Van Dyke, dance student from Woman's College, the club has become quite active. The club presented English folk dances in May Day and a short dance for the Junior-Senior Banquet.

Betsy White and Jo Cameron, old and new May Day chairmen, worked hard on plans for the May Day. They went back to tradition in using an old English May Day as the basis for the pageant.

Other activities including the supervision of our bulletin board, the new scrapbook, and the Awards Banquet held in April have helped make this year an extremely successful one.

Bringing in the May . . .

In an Old English setting on the Guilford College Campus, amid the blare of the herald's trumpets, Miss Jo Butner of Winston-Salem was crowned Queen of the May. The Queen and her court reigned over the ensuing English dances much as a queen reigned over the traditional May Day in old England. The program included those Morris dances long traditions in England; the antics of clowns and jesters; games reminiscent of those played at England court fairs; and Country Gardens, followed by the May Pole Dance.

Reigning with the queen were her Maid of Honor,

Miss Mickey Peele of Greensboro, and the other members of the court. All the girls were elected from the Senior class on the basis of their beauty and their winning personalities. The attendants who composed the rest of the court were Miss Mary Alice Briggs of High Point, Miss Dorothy Cheek of Reidsville, Miss Polly Edgerton of Goldsboro, Miss Joyce Fulk of Pilot Mountain, Miss Sally Haire of North Troy, Vt., Miss Jane Hockett of Pleasant Garden, Mrs. Lucy Leake Ingram of Winston-Salem, and Miss Ann Reece of Woodland.

This attractive group reigned over the May Day of '52. Front row: Lucy Ingram, Polly Edgerton, Dorothy Cheek, and Sally Haire. Second row: Joyce Fulk, Ann Reece, Mickey Peele, Mary Alice Briggs, and Jane Hockett. Standing: Jo Butner.

Slowly They March . . .

. . . down the old flagstone walk from Founders—the graduates of 1952 are taking their last steps on the campus as students of Guilford College. The door slowly closes on four of the most memorable years in their lives—four years that once seemed an eternity but are fast becoming a dream. And now the time has come to bid farewell to those good times, old friends, classmates, and faculty, but the life at Guilford of which they—the seniors—have come to feel so great a part, will go on with them forever.
